Dr. Billy Stetzel is a third generation chiropractor and owner of SoVita Chiropractic Center in Morristown, NJ. SoVita Chiropractic Centers were established in 1986, and the Morristown location has been in operation since 2018. Dr. Stetzel places a high value on patient education and informed health care. He believes that combined with quality chiropractic care, imparting wisdom will allow patients to live and express life at their fullest potential.

Dr. Stetzel completed his undergraduate education in Biology at East Stroudsburg University of Pennsylvania. He went on to graduate with honors as a Doctor of Chiropractic from Sherman College of Chiropractic in Spartanburg South Carolina. From Chiropractic School, Dr. Stetzel went on to intern in a large family practice outside Boston, MA where he learned the leading techniques in providing quality family care working with populations ranging from infants to the elderly. He is active in the chiropractic community, regularly attending seminars on topics such as pediatric chiropractic, chiropractic technique, and the philosophy of chiropractic. He loves to learn and is constantly looking for new methods to facilitate growth in his practice members towards greater vitality and efficiency.

Dr. Billy Stetzel is married to Katelyn Stetzel, who also works in SoVita Chiropractic Center as the office manager. They are Morris county residents and actively participate in the community. Outside the office Dr. Stetzel enjoys CrossFit and has received his level one certificate to coach classes. As an eagle scout he also enjoys anything outdoors, hiking, kayaking, hunting, and fishing.
